

TOP 4 BENEFITS OF PALMETTOPLEX®

The prostate gland is a round, walnut-sized gland that exists below the bladder and surrounds the urethra—the tube that transports urine from the bladder. As part of the male reproductive system, the prostate produces most of the fluid contained in semen and helps mobilize and alkalize sperm. The prostate gland, while a seemingly simple part of the male anatomy, is very important. Indeed, the National Institute on Aging advises that the best protection for the prostate is to have regular medical checkups that include a comprehensive prostate exam.

The botanical and whole food ingredients found in Palmettoplex offer a natural formula created specifically to support a healthy prostate gland by:

- Providing prostate cell determinants to help support and maintain healthy tissue
- Encouraging healthy cell cycling
- Decreasing cellular oxidative damage
- Improving bladder elasticity*
